Issues and Challenges for the State education sector

- Large number of out school children
- Gender disparity in enrolment at all levels and in the state teaching force to the disadvantage of girl-child
- Shortage of teachers in both the required quantity and quality, especially at basic education level.
- Educational infrastructures and facilities are both dilapidated and over stretched.
- Limited resources on the part of government and parents.
- Low private sector participation, which leads to overwhelming dependence on government
- Poor learning outcomes

Programmes/Projects

(1) Development of a sector-wide plan

- A 10-year State Strategic Sector Plan (SESP) has been developed by MOEST in collaboration with UNICEF/DFID, with full participation of key stakeholders.
- The main thrust of the Plan is to galvanize current government's initiatives in the sector into coherent development path.
- SESP was developed along with an operational plan -State Education Sector Operational Plan (SESOP), now Medium Term Sector Strategy (MTSS).
- MTSS is a process of translating the long-term policies of Government as articulated in policy documents into the spending reality of the annual budgets.
