Dear Myani

I hope that you are well and that you had a restful weekend. I have been looking through the Knowledge management Framework 2010-2012 that was recently produced. I note that the KM strategy is framed on the Strategic Objectives from the 2010 – 2012 Strategic Plan. As you know from your active participation in the workshop on Thursday, we now have new draft Strategic Objectives. We therefore need to update the KM Strategy and base them on the Objectives of the 2013-2015 Strategic Plan.

The draft Objectives of the 2013-2015 Strategic plan are

1. Sustain and improve the Forum's ability to play a significant and influential role in dispute resolution within the forum, at national, state and local government levels as well as in the wider society;
2. Strengthen the process of peer based learning and sharing of developmental experiences and increase its potential to improve good governance and socio economic development at the state level
3. Enhance the visibility of the NGF and its capabilities with its stakeholders including Federal bodies, International Development Partners (IDPs), NGOs, and the media through an effective communication strategy, designed and implemented.
4. To develop a lean and effective management and operational Secretariat that delivers the long-term goals of the Forum.
5. Strengthen the secretariat as the efficient and effective engine of the Forum that acts as an effective policy hub of the forum delivering context specific and relevant policy advice and providing all round capacity strengthening services to Governors in their day to day running of their States

Please can you redo the Table in Section 4.4 of the Knowledge Management Framework (which sets Key Outputs, Main KM activities , Performance Indicators and means of verification) using these draft Strategic Objectives. We are on a very tight schedule for completing the Strategic Plan so I am going to ask the impossible - please could you send this to me today?

Best regards

adam

Dear Myani

Further to our telephone conversation yesterday and the email below, it is urgent that we finish the Strategic Plan. In order to do that, we need to update the KM Strategy and base it on the Objectives of the 2013-2015 Strategic Plan. Please can you let me know how close you are to completing the reworking of the Table in Section 4.4 of the Knowledge Management Framework (which sets Key Outputs, Main KM activities , Performance Indicators and means of verification) using the new draft Strategic Objectives?

Dear Myani

Thank you for your message. I appreciate your commitment for doing this at such a busy time - thank you.

Please could you also put the KM and Communications activities for Objective 3 - Enhance the visibility of the NGF and its capabilities with its stakeholders including Federal bodies, International Development Partners (IDPs), NGOs, and the media through an effective communication strategy, designed and implemented into the framework.

There will be now be no need to allocate Key activities to Objective 4 as it has been dropped. However, there are a large number of KM and Communications activities for the last Objective - Strengthen the secretariat as the efficient and effective engine of the Forum that acts as an effective policy hub of the forum delivering context specific and relevant policy advice and providing all round capacity strengthening services to Governors in their day to day running of their States .

In addition, please could you also insert the Key performance indicators and means of verification for the KM and Communications activities for all four strategic Objectives.

Thanks again and best regards

Adam,

Thanks for taking the time to follow up with Bukar. Like you I appreciated him for pulling this off despite his busy schedule. I agree with you that it will be useful for him to complete the KM activities for the other objectives. I am yet to receive a response from the DG on the changes they have made to the Strategic Objectives but I see some value in threading some of the Outputs of the KM of any objectives that have been dropped. The mere fact that an objective was retained after that participatory process used at the workshop to determine priority objectives suggests that the issues implicit in each objective are important even if they do not qualify as strategic.

Overall, I think the input is a good start. As Objectives/Results/Activities/Budgets get defined it will be necessary for the KM strategy to be more specific in terms of the knowledge that is likely to be generated and disseminated as part of the functions of the Secretariat. It may then make it easier to sell it to Governors and hopefully build upon the knowledge to be generated to develop a financing plan which the principals can buy into. The secretariat needs to generate significant untied revenue to become effective and relevant to Governors and the development process in States.

Hi Adam,

Sorry for the delayed response. I have been working with the SPARC KM team to get the entire KM Framework and strategy done. We were working with the assumption that the NGF strategy will only contain the KM Objectives and some key activities and that we will develop the framework and strategy for implementation drawing from the NGF strategy after its out. However, if you could send me the zero draft of the NGF strategy as it presently is, we can then proceed next week and have it done by the of the week.

Thanks

Dear Myani,

I am pleased you are working with the SPARC KM team to further develop the KM framework and strategy. The M&E person on the team is doing further work and should be presenting his first draft input by close of day today. He expected to generate information on the following:

- Indicators
- Means of verification (data source, data collection method, frequency of data collection, responsibility for data collection)
- Indicative targets and time-frames (lifted from the circulated goal statement, strategic objectives, etc).
- Assumptions and risks relating to meeting the indicative targets and time-frames

- Use of the M&E information (Reporting and Presentation) that will be generated.
- A column for the insertion of the cost of data collection

My understanding is that his input will further assist you flesh out NGF's KM and Communication strategy. Otherwise, the zero draft is designed to be complete in the sense that it will contain elements covering all aspects of the NGF Strategic Plan outline which is attached. Realistically, I do not expect all elements to be finalized so it is better to have as much as you can flesh out now to enable me pull all the elements together into a coherent whole. As it goes through the first, second and possibly 3rd drafts we still have the opportunity to improve on it.

I am therefore expecting that you send me a draft KM and Communication strategy with the understanding that it is still work in progress.

Have a good weekend

Nicholas

Dear Myani

Thank you for your reply. Our problem is that we need to complete the report this week. The version of the zero draft that you have must be an early version. As I mentioned in my message this morning, the KM part will now be mainstreamed into most sections of the report. This means that it will not be presented in the same way as in the early draft of the report that you have received. Please could you update the Table in Section 4.4 of your current Knowledge Management Framework (which sets Key Outputs, Main KM activities, Key Performance Indicators and means of verification) and we will use this information to integrate your KM work into the Strategic direction of the NGF over the next three years.
